Experience

Slinggit, llc

April 2012 - Present

Slinggit is a native iOS and responsive web application allowing users to quickly sell items through their Facebook and Twitter accounts. As a co-founder I focus on the usability of the application across web and native platforms with a passion for the mobile experience and get my hands dirty with the media queries, sass and even some jquery and rails. Being a team of 4 I have direct roll in the information architecture, interaction design, visual design and front-end code.

Pixorial, Inc

February 2012 - Present

Pixorial helps you tell the stories in your videos. As a member of a small startup I wear many hats from designing and moderating usability tests to wire-framing and coding HTML, CSS, Javascript and even some rails. When I joined the Pixorial the DOM was littered with deprecated elements and the front-end was heavy and slow. I have worked to re-factor code to use semantic HTML5 elements, reduce HTTP requests with CSS3 and design with progressive enhancement using tools like Modernizr and concepts like mobile-first design/development. I also work closely with a native iOS/Android developer to design interactions and visual assets for native applications ranging from iPhone to Google TV.
